

Invitation to participate

We, the team behind Listology: Exploring lists in all their possibilities, warmly invite you to contribute to our blog. If you have come across any fascinating lists in your research, readings, or everyday life and would like to share your ideas on this puzzling, sometimes frustrating form – then we would be delighted to have you as a guest author on our blog. We invite guest posts by fellow list lovers, and we aim to include as many different lists from as many centuries and cultures as possible. As to the format and length of your contribution, this is entirely up to you: from a short essay to more creative formats, anything goes. If you would like to include images, by all means! Just ensure that you have the rights to publish them.

New blog posts are published every two weeks on Sundays, each featuring a particular list, or kind of list, or a list-related topic. Our blog is accompanied by a Twitter and an Instagram account (see below), and new posts are announced through those channels as well.

We gladly accept contributions whenever you have the opportunity to send them. Please do not hesitate to get in touch with any questions or queries! We look forward to welcoming you as a guest blogger.

Eva von Contzen
Amanda Gerber
Martha D. Rust

Contact: listology.blog@gmail.com

Blog: <https://listology.blog>

Twitter: @listology.blog

Instagram: listologyblog

